"Our Grand Old Man"

J. Proctor Knott quietly celebrated his 80th birthday at his home in Lebanon Monday. He is the "Grand Old Man" of Kentucky. We trust that he may be spared for many days yet to come and that they may all be days of peace and contentment. J. Proctor Knott was not only the greatest man that this district ever sent to Congress but the entire State never had an abler more brilliant or more honest man in the halls of Congress. His name is known from one end of this country to the other. As the Chairman of the Judiciary committee of the House he ranked with Jerry Black as the first constitutional lawyer of the country. As a debater on the floor he was a match for James G. Blaine. As a statesman he was in a class all by himself and his Duluth speech has never been equalled in the English language. As a man of letters, as an artist and a sculptor he has rare talent and great knowledge. Knowing him intimately for more than twenty years of his public life he never ceased to surprise us with the infinite variety of his knowledge and his absolute correctness and thoroughness. Taking him in the breadth and scope of his mind and in the versatility of his talents we are fully persuaded that there does not live in the South a greater man than J. Proctor Knott. He is as great as were Beck, Corliss, Hill of Georgia, or Lamar, of Mississippi, who were his colleagues in Congress. On his 80th birthday we take off our hats to the "Grand Old Man" of Kentucky and our old friend, J. Proctor Knott--Edwin News.

CLAUDE MERCER

Sues Breckenridge County For Thirty-Five Hundred Dollars For His Labor.

Claude Mercer has sued Breckenridge county for $3,500, which he claims due him as profits on his labor for indexing in the most up-to-date way the sixty deed books of the county. His petition alleges that he was employed in 1909 to do the indexing "at the customary price for such work." He declares that he began the work and would have completed it at an approximate cost of $5,400 to the county, there being 5,900 pages of matter to be indexed. He states that the customary price for such work is $1.50 per page. His asking for the $3,500 instead of the $5,400 he explains by stating that the difference is what he would expend in incidental expenses, hiring help, etc.

Mr. Mercer's petition alleges that the Fiscal Court in 1910 annulled his contract after he had spent considerable time upon the work. He states that he had employed a competent assistant at $50 per month to help him, and that the assistant had done several months' work. R. A. Miller, of Owensboro, is attorney with Mr. Mercer in asking of the taxpayers these thousands of dollars for a work which most of them will think comparatively unnecessary.

CLOVERPORT'S NOTED KICKING POST

From Sunday's Courier Journal

Had Ponce de Leon lived 400 years longer and made a visit to Cloverport, he would have found a bit of consolation over his disappointment in failing to find the magical fountain in the American fairland, where one might bathe and be young again, because Cloverport has the most unique treasure in the world--her "Kicking Post." Although old Ponce could not have restored his youth here, he would have been mentally refreshed along optimistic lines, for everybody who comes to this port and kicks "The Post," goes away in triumph.

"Kicking the Post" originated about eighteen years ago, when a society woman, of this city, was walking around the corner of Chestnut and River streets, stopped and kicked the lamp post "just for good luck." That day some excellent fortune befell her, and ever since the stunt has been practiced by the young people, especially engaged couples. Now, the older citizens, too, are becoming very enthusiastic over it, and many take a daily kick.

A year ago when natural gas was installed for street lighting the wooden lamp posts were removed and iron posts were put on every corner in the city, so the origin "Kicking Post" went down. However, the new one is just as popular, and the person who passes it without giving it a swift kick is so "set in his ways" that he is hopeless. Another reason "The Kicking Post" is so attractive, it stands in St. Rose Court, where the view of the Ohio River is very beautiful.

When the "Boosters' Club" of Louisville, visits the town of golden sunsets and pretty girls, Mayor Barry has promised to give each member a chance to kick "The Post."

Splendid Citizen Gone

MRS. BEAUCHAMP

President Of Kentucky W. C. T. U. Announces For Congress.

Mrs. Frances Beauchamp, of Lexington, President of the W. C. T. U. in Kentucky, one of the most widely known clubwomen of this county, has announced that she will be a candidate for Congress in opposition to J. Campbell Cantrell, the present Representative and Democratic nominee, and M. C. Rankin, present State Commissioner of Agriculture and Republican nominee from the Seventh District. In her announcement Mrs. Beauchamp declares that all civil and moral forces should conspire to create the most favorable environment for the boy and girl; that she regards the young human unit as the most valuable of all our national resources, for the conservation of which greatest attention should be given, and that the liquor system of America is the greatest enemy of every child born under the flag. She declares that the traffic in liquor cannot be regulated, that it must be destroyed; that to destroy it, national legislation is a necessity; that to secure such legislation and officers who will enforce the laws after their enactment, a political party, such as the Prohibition party, is a necessity. So she takes the prohibition platform as the one upon which she will make her race and stump the district. Mrs. Beauchamp also condemns the white slave traffic, says she is opposed to the use of tobacco, but "as between the interests of the growers and the selfish greed of the trust" she is for legislation as would protect the growers. She says she has the opinion of eminent statesmen that there is nothing the constitution to prevent a woman from occupying a seat in Congress and that at any rate it is the business of Congress to settle the question, which she says it will do sooner or later, and she asks the "childish men of the Seventh District" to make her the medium of such a test.

Dr. Hillary Boone, dentist of this city, attended Thompson and called Dr. Moorman to Irvington. The injured was taken to Louisville, where he is now in a hospital. His large number of friends are glad to know that there are hopes for his recovery.

Mrs. Mather Honored

Hardinsburg, Sept. 17. (Special).—The Woman's Home Missionary Society, organized two years ago by Mrs. A. Mather, held its last meeting for the conference year at the home of Mrs. A. Miss Della Kincheloe. The Bulletin were "served" as salad, a bit of green and a tooth pick being the dressing. After the business session, Mrs. Pile, in a touching and beautiful speech presented to Mrs. Mather a set of sterling silver teaspoons from the various members, saying: "Our friendship is as sterling as this little token which we present you." She also presented her with two dozen lovely roses. Mrs. Mather's manner and expression showed that she was surprised, but she arose as soon as she could regain composure and make a fitting and grateful little speech, bespeaking her love for the donors and urging them to go on with their noble work. After the program a formal reception was held for Mrs. Mather. A delicious ice course being served by the hostess. The meeting was held on Mrs. Pile's porch, which was furnished as a sitting room and decorated in yellow and green ferns and given root. Jardiniere containing autumn flowers, placed upon tabourets, together with rugs and lazy chairs, were arranged in a homelike way. The invitations were cards with pictures of comfortable porches and the following rhyme:

On Tuesday eve at half past two
Our Mission meeting will be due Upon the porch of Mrs. Pile
You must be present all the while

The result is a good crop and an apple that will bring the top of the market.

ADVICE TO OUR CORRESPONDENTS :

On How to Write for the Press—Valuable Pointers Given Which if Closely Followed will Greatly Improve their Letters

The Rouseville (W. Va.) West Virginia News recently printed a set of rules for the guidance of its country correspondents. These rules are just as applicable to The Breckenridge News as the West Virginia newspaper. We would advise our correspondents to clip them out and preserve them for your future guidance.

The rules follow in part:

First of all, the News is a newspaper designed to give the news of the neighborhood, county, state and nation, and no effort should be made to make it the purveyor of mere gossip or the instrument of personal revenge. In disseminating the news it must be reliable and impartial to the utmost degree. Once in a great while some one who has a grudge against a neighbor, writes a letter to the News in which a sly thrust is made at the person he or she doesn't like. Sometimes it is cleverly disguised and the editors are unable to detect. This should never be done, and is earnestly hoped that no correspondent or occasional contributor will so abuse our trust. Personal feeling should never dictate in giving news. Never overlook the comings and goings of neighbors whom you may not like. Give all the news of all the people, whether you like them or not.

Avoid as much as possible chronicling the calls made by one neighbor upon another who live on adjoining farms. There is little news value in such items.

Do not note the calls made by the beaux on the belles of the neighborhood.

Do not forecast marriages unless absolutely certain, but report them after they occur.

In giving the news of a birth, say: a son (or daughter) was born to Mr. and Mrs. So and So on such-and-such a day of the week, month and year. Leave off making comment on the father's actions.

Don't report any rumors which have no foundation, or rumor which would injure a person if untrue.

Date letters and write with this date in mind.

Write only on one side of the paper, using ink or soft and very black lead pencil.

Write plainly as possible, especially proper names, and start a new line every time you change the subject, thus making a paragraph of each item.

Write about comings and goings in your neighborhood—those who visit from a distance or from some other town or neighborhood, and those who go away on business or to visit. Tell who they are visiting and where and when, and write plainly and correctly. Don't use nick-names, but always the proper name.

Get all the facts, giving full particulars—date, age, residence, cause of death, full name, number of children, if any left, and where they live, and all other particulars.

Give all marriages and particulars of weddings.

Give account of all accidents, fires, new buildings of importance, sale of farms or large property—who sold and who bought—crimes, if any are committed, with correct and accurate details.

Report everything of a news character. Leave nothing out which has news value or which will interest readers.

Report large crops and crop prospects.

Report any unusual business activity.

Report social events, parties, etc., and give names of those invited or attending.

Report all religious events which are to take place, giving names of those connected with them.

Report nothing of a personal nature or which will wrong anybody in the slightest.

GOOD ROADS "BEE"

Nevel Idea That Can Be Duplicated With Profit.

Everybody, we suppose, has heard of the old fashioned spelling bee, etc., but a good roads bee is a brand new thing. Out in Logan county, Kan., the other day a live wire commercial club arranged such a bee with gratifying results. Twenty-six teams and more than that many men turned out. Lawyers and merchants and bankers and farmers joined forces. They drove scrapers and plows and wagons and road drags, and as a result the day's work created a fine stretch of road running into the town of Logan. The Topeka Capital publishes a cut of the "bees" at the bee, and it must have been an inspiring scene. The idea is excellent and could be duplicated with profit in many a rural southern community.

On the same plan is the designation of "good roads days." The county commissioners give official color to this by declaring certain days good roads days and issue a call to the citizens of the entire county to turn out and work the roads. The people in that part of the summer when farm work is slack will be found more than willing to take part in such a patriotic job, and a surprisingly large amount of good can be accomplished. The roads can be shaped, cut, ditched out and the road drag turned to good use. Co-operation is the "order of the day" in all lines of endeavor, and where there is lacking a system of financial backing sufficient to construct permanent highways, this "bee idea" and the "good roads days" idea will be productive of good in more ways than one.—Southern Good Roads.

LAME EVERY MORNING

A Bad Back Is Always Worse In The Morning. Cloverport People Are Finding Relief.

lief.

A back that aches all day and causes discomfort at night is usually worse in the morning. Makes you feel as if you hadn't slept at all.

Can't cure a bad back until you cure the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys—make you feel better, work better, rest better and sleep better.

Permanent cures in Cloverport prove the merit of Doan's. William Johnson, Cloverport, Ky., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills in my case proved to be a very reliable remedy and consequently I have no hesitation in recommending them. For six years my kidneys were disordered, the secretions being too frequent in passage and when allowed to stand, depositing sediment. My back ached severely, particularly at night and in the morning I was so lame and sore that I could scarcely get around. Whenever I contracted the slightest cold it settled in my kidneys and made my suffering more intense. Doan's Kidney Pills have given me great relief from these troubles."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McBreen Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

CORE OF THE EARTH.

One of the Enigmas of Nature That Science Cannot Solve.

Human beings know only a mere skin of the surface of the earth, not more than thirty miles deep, while the globe is 8,000 miles in diameter. There is probably no oxygen at all below thirty miles, and it is difficult to guess what are the elements within. Probably the heaviest elements form a dense core near the center.

It is in some respects astonishing, most alarming, that we are so completely devoid of any direct knowledge of the constituents of the vast mass of globe beneath us and really only know the merest film. A skin or membrane one-twentieth of an inch in thickness the thickness of kid or brown paper spread over a ball a little more than a foot in diameter represents the proportion between the known crust of the earth thirty miles thick and the great globe itself. We are dependent on inference and speculation for our notions as to the constitution of all that is beneath the mere skin of thirty miles thickness on the globe's surface! Even what is thrown up by the biggest volcanoes does not come from below this depth or tell us what lies hidden there.—Exchange.

The Picture It Brought From Out a Dark Cavern.

Dr. Francis Clark told an interesting story of a youth living in Maine who was out in the woods one day taking photographs of attractive bits of scenery. He came upon the mouth of a little cavern between the rocks, and he said to himself, "I will see what sort of picture I can get out of that cave." And as it was a dark day he decided to take a "time exposure." Instead of a "snapshot" striding the camera upon his knee as well as he could at the edge of the cave, he gave the sensitive plate a long, deliberate look at the semidarkness within. Then he continued his tramp through the woods and after a few hours returned to his camp.

Several weeks afterward, when developing his plates, you can imagine his astonishment to see in the picture, in the very center of the cavern, with arched back and bristling fur and within springing distance of the spot where he had balanced his camera, a huge Canada lynx that night easily had destroyed his life. And yet he came and went and saw no signs of danger.—Christian Herald.

Proving a Statement.

A certain minister, who is an emphatic preacher, is at times at a loss to give his utterances proper weight. For instance, he'll say, "This statement is as true as is the night which will follow day," or "as true as that the trees will bud in spring." Sometimes it happens that the doctor has more statements than he has illustrations to give them weight. On one such occasion he remarked, "This is as true as the stars," where the doctor halted. He paused a few moments, and then his face illumined—"as true as is the statement that some member is yet on his or her way to church." A few moments later a lady entered the edifice and swept grandly up the aisle. The doctor's face assumed an odd yet happy appearance. The congregation began to smile, then to laugh. Sympathy for the embarrassed lady, however, soon subdued the apparently uncontrollable mirth.

Jury Acquitted Them.

A jury at Cairo, Ill., acquitted the twelve men charged with the attack on the county jail there on the night of Feb. 17 last for the purpose of lynching a negro.

IDEAS ABOUT THE RAINBOW

Queer Notions Held by People of Different Countries Regarding the Bow.

In many countries the rainbow is spoken of as being a great bent pump or siphon tube, drawing water from the earth by mechanical means. In parts of Russia, in the Don country, and also in Moscow and vicinity, it is known by a name which is equivalent to the bent water-pipe. In nearly all Slavonic dialects it is known by terms signifying "the cloud siphon," and in Hungary it is "the pump," "Koska's pump" and "God's pump." The Malayan natives call it by the same name that they do their manded water cobra, only that they add "baba" (meaning double-headed), the equivalent in our language being "the double-headed water-snake."

They tell you that the bow is a real thing of life, that it drinks with its two mouths, and that the water is transferred to the clouds through an opening in the upper side of the center of the great arch. In the province of Charkov, Russia, the rainbow is said to drain the wells, and to prevent this many are provided with heavy, tight-fitting stone platforms.

In the province of Saratov the bow is said to be under the control of three angels, one of whom pumps the water, the second "feeds" the clouds, and the third sends the rain. Many improbable and impossible things would happen if you could only get in reach of "the bow."

The Little Turk is told that if he would have a silver head, with gold teeth and ruby eyes, he has but to touch the orange stripe. In Ukraine they say that the person so unfortunate as to stumble over the end of the bow will have his head or her sex immediately changed.

"I confess to being rather particular about my pajamas," said the fastidious man, "and I had an experience last week that nearly gave me nervous prostration, until I saw the humor of the situation. I was staying in a little country town down in Maryland, and it was necessary to send some soiled clothing to the laundry, the one laundry of which the village boasted."

"Judge of my surprise when my stuff was returned to me to find that my pajamas had been heavily starched, with decided creases ironed down in front. I was not only enraged, but mystified as well, until, in looking over the bill, I came to this item:

For Congress

HON. BEN JOHNSON

Do you remember that little green card we sent you regarding your subscription? Have you attended to it, if not better do it if you want the paper continued. If we do not hear from you we shall consider that you do not want the paper longer and will discontinue it.

Ben Johnson is the favorite candidate for Governor in this county. The Democrats are nearly solid for him.

A petition is being circulated for the pardon of T. S. Anderson, of Owensboro, recently convicted for false entries in the Davies county bank. He is over seventy and should have his freedom.

As goes Maine, so goes the country. Senator Hale, who has been in Congress forty years, will be succeeded by a Democrat. In 1912 the remainder of the Republican contingent will follow brother Hale.

Breckinridge County furnished a delegate to the recent reunion of Confederate veterans at Pee-wee Valley, Ky., who has passed the 70th mile stone. It was none other than Mr. R. S. Skillman, our ex-count clerk.

The Republicans in the eleventh district have nominated Caleb Powers for Congress, the man twice convicted as an accomplice in the assassination of Gov. Goebel. The general belief is that he will be defeated at the polls in November.

"Cleanliness is next to Godliness" says our Irvington correspondent. We wish that all our correspondents would get this spirit in all the towns over the county so that Breckenridge might be beautiful and clean from one end to the other.

We extend our sincere sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. O'Sullivan, in the loss of their daughter, Katherine Elizabeth. She was just nineteen years of age and had started on a bright career in newspaper work with her father, who is editor of the Shelby Sentinel, at Shelbyville.

The New York World nominates for the presidency, Wm. Jennings Bryan. As Mr. Roosevelt has recently stolen Mr. Bryan's platform it is not likely that Mr. Bryan can get in. The great Democracy of the country will see to it that a Democrat is nominated this time that will win.

The end of this week will see about all the tobacco crop cut and housed. The crop generally speaking will be much better than was expected three or four weeks ago. The seasonable weather has done much to help out the late planting. Growers are generally pleased over the outcome.

The New York Sun says the great Democratic victory in Maine is full of significance, and it is a danger signal to the Republican party in the nation. Republicans all over the county are in a shaky condition except in Breckenridge county where they don't know that an election has been held in Maine.

The Kentucky Press Association was represented at the State Fair by President A. D. Miller, Secretary Stanley, Harry Sommers, Dan Bowman, W. P. Walton and Tom Pickles. Although there was no special program mapped out for the editors, we all enjoyed the courtesies extended the press and felt that the interest we have shown in the fair was appreciated. The fair was a monster success, the total attendance being 110,598, six thousand more people than attended last year.

ABDUL HAMID'S 746 WIVES WORRY LAWMAKING TURKS.

Pensioned Because They Can't Remarry Among Moslems.

Abdul Hamid's wives continue to be a source of perplexity to the Turkish government. Their number was estimated not to exceed 200, including female slaves of all ranks, but the ministry of finance found itself confronted by claims from 746 women who demanded from the ex-sultan's successor compensation to the tune of $800,000. The government refused to pay this sum, but proposed that the chamber should sanction an arrangement by which the women of the harem for a period of ten years should receive monthly pensions ranging from $4.25 to $21.25, which even in frugal Turkey is a pretty meager subsistence. The Turkish deputies, however, still thought the ministry overgenerous.

Some of the Extreme Left shouted, "Why don't you get them married off?" whereupon the finance minister retorted that the women were lone and homeless widows and, according to Turkish custom, could not expect to attract husbands among the faithful. Other deputies suggested that as the women came mostly from Asia Minor or Albania they should be sent back to their native provinces to be cared for locally.

Here the members for the provinces concurred jumped up and pointed out indignantly that the families of these women had received good money for them by selling them to Yildiz kiosk and that the local authorities could not now be expected to provide for their maintenance. Other deputies again firmly refused to do anything at all for the ex-sultan's grass widows so long as wives and mothers of Ottoman soldiers who had bled for their country were living in dire poverty.

Finally a small majority was found for the government's project, and so the women of the harem may look forward to receiving their little pension, at all events until 1920.

REPORTERS REWRITE BIBLE?

Clergyman Thinks Newspaper Handling Would Enhance Interest.

The novel combination in the pulpit of a newspaper man's training with the equipment of a minister is the up to date idea of the Rev. W. B. Jordan, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Jerseyville, Ill. Recently he visited a newspaper office there to see how a daily is got out.

"The bright and breezy way in which city reporters write up an event makes people read the story through with interest from start to finish," commented Mr. Jordan. "I have often thought that if ministers in their sermon writing would try to adopt newspaper methods to the extent of turning out more interesting and vivid 'copy' they would make more impression upon their congregations and attract more to the services."

"If certain events related in the Bible had been covered by men like the newspaper reporter of today, I believe many persons now repelled by the style of the King James version would read such an account, if it existed, with the keenest interest and pleasure."

ANCIENTS FEARED DOG DAYS.

Sacrificed Canines to Sirius, to Ward Off Sultry Dangers.

In ancient times it was customary at the beginning of "dog days" to sacrifice a brown dog to appease the wrath of Sirius, the dog star, so soon as that star became visible to the naked eye.

Sirius was supposed to cause the hot, sultry weather usually attendant on its appearance, and the ancients believed that on the first morning of its rising the sea boiled, wine turned sour, dogs grew mad and that man became afflicted with burning fevers, hysterics and frenzies.

At Argos a festival was held during the dog days called cynophantes, from Greek words signifying "killing dogs," when it was the custom to kill every canine creature that was met with.

STUPID PEOPLE.

Couldn't Tell What Grew Up Straight and Was Served on Toast.

Never ask any one to supply you with a missing word, says a writer in the Acheson Globe, and if the experience which he relates is typical it is good advice. A woman was engaged recently in writing a letter to a friend, in which she was telling of what they had to eat at a party. She was getting along very well when all of a sudden she stopped to think, "What," she called to her family, "is that green stuff that grows up straight?"

"Evergreen trees," some one replied. "Oh, no," said the woman; "I mean something to eat."

"Onions," was the reply. "No," she said, "not onions."

"Lettuce," "beans," "peas," and so on, were all called out by the family, all anxious to supply the missing word. "None of them is right," said the woman. Then she tried a new tack.

"What is it," she said, "they serve on toast?"

"Toasted eggs," said one member of the family.

"Jam," said another. Then the woman got up, tore her letter into pieces and put the thing off till later on.

Three days later she was in a grocery store and saw something marked "10 cents a bunch" that sent her running all the way home.

"It was asparagus," she cried. "I should think some of you might have known it was asparagus! Didn't I say it grew up straight and was served on toast?"

ABSURD FASHIONS.

Hairdressing and Hats in the Time of Marie Antoinette.

Some of the fashions in France during the reign of unfortunate Queen Marie Antoinette were exceedingly absurd, particularly hairdressing and hats, which were trimmed with such an extravagant wealth of feathers that the coaches had to have their seats lowered to accommodate them.

One day Louis XVI. decided to forbid the court in a body to follow the royal hunt in coaches. In order to be free he wished only to permit ladies to attend. The noble ladies immediately rebelled, and the Princess of Monaco rebelled the decision by means of her headpiece, upon which arose a miniature royal coach, followed by two gentlemen on foot in gaiters. On the left of this was displayed a cypress garland with black tears, the large roots being formed of crapes.

More absurd still was the hairdressing of the mother of Louis Philippe, upon whose head every one could admire her son, the Duc de Beaufort, in the arms of his nurse as well as a parrot pecking at a cherry.

Her Only Criticism.
Little Dorothy not only liked her tea and coffee to have the appearance of being "real and truly," but she also liked to taste the flavor of each. One afternoon her mother took her to a friend's home where tea was served at 5 o'clock.

The hostess gave to Dorothy what she usually gave to her own children, of Dorothy's age, in the line of liquid refreshment—viz. hot water, sugar and milk. Dorothy tasted hers politely and ate her little cakes.

"Why, Dorothy, you aren't drinking your tea, dear. Isn't it sweet enough?" asked the hostess.

"Yes, Mrs. C. It's sweet enough," replied the child.

"Then why aren't you taking it?" "It's too dull," she replied.—New York Times.

Another Meaning.

A traveler to the north on the Great Northern railway, having delivered his luggage to the care of an alert railway porter, proceeded to make himself comfortable in the corner of a first class smoking compartment. The porter, having performed his duty, came to the carriage to report, not without expectation of acceptable reward.

"Well," said the passenger, "I see by the letters 'N. R.' on your cap, 'Gentlemen never rewarded.'"

"Not quite that, sir," replied the porter, touching his cap peak. "It might mean 'gentlemen never refused.'"

On the way that porter smiled when he left the carriage betokening his satisfaction at the material result of his smart answer and the service he had rendered.—London Mail.

Attention Sick Women

If you had positive proof that a certain remedy for female ills had made many remarkable cures, would you not feel like trying it?

If during the last thirty years we have not succeeded in convincing every fair-minded woman that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured thousands and thousands of women of the ills peculiar to their sex, then we long for an opportunity to do so by direct correspondence. Meanwhile read the following letters which we guarantee to be genuine and truthful.

Hudson, Ohio.—"I suffered for a long time from a weakness, inflammation, dreadful pains each month and suppression. I had been doctoring and receiving only temporary relief, when a friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so, and wrote to you for advice. I have faithfully followed your directions and now, after taking only five bottles of the Vegetable Compound, I have every reason to believe I am a well woman. I give you full permission to use my testimonial."

—Mrs. Lena Carmichael, Hudson, Ohio. R. F. D. No. 7.
St. Regis Falls, N. Y.—"Two years ago I was so bad that I had to take my bed every month, and it would last from two to three weeks. I wrote to you for advice and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in dry form. I am happy to say that I am cured, thanks to your medicine and good advice. You may use my letter to the good of others."—Mrs. J. H. Breyer, St. Regis Falls, N. Y.

There is absolutely no doubt about the ability of this grand old remedy, made from the roots and herbs of our fields, to cure female diseases. We possess volumes of proof of this fact, enough to convince the most skeptical.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

SINS OF RELATIVES-IN-LAW.

It's Going to Be a Tremendous Fur Season—Neckpieces Will Be Larger. Gowns and Suits of Two Materials Will Be Modish.

Dear Elsa—When you have time to go off and have a good laugh to yourself for an hour or so just take "Mary Cary" with you for an inspiration. She's one of the "best sellers" of the moment. Take my word for it that this little story is the breeziest, most wholesome and altogether delightful "yarn" that has come my way since Mrs. Wiggs of Cabbage Patch fame appeared in the book world, and that's saying a good deal. For the cheery optimism of Billie Wiggs' mother has helped me over some mighty hard places and situations, and I just love her.

This Mary Cary is an orphan asylum child, but I'm not going to spoil sport by telling you her life history. I simply want to whet your literary appetite and make you hunger and thirst for an acquaintance with this fascinating little creature by giving you a few samples of her mental deductions. Here are some choice "thinkers":
"There are days when I just love thunder and lightning. I can't dash and crash, being just Mary Cary, but I'd like to, and when it is done for me it is a relief to my feelings." Haven't you often had those sensations?
I have many a time and too oft.
And this one: "What a different place some people can make of the same place!" Speaking of former Christmas celebrations at the asylum, she says: "Our Christmas had always been after Christmas, and Christmas after Christmas is like cold buckwheat cakes and no string." Now, this is exactly the feeling I have always had about Christmas Sunday school and charity entertainments.

Now, isn't this one lovely: "You father is only related to you by marriage, but your mother is related to you by boration."

I might as well set "quotes" before I've picked off more plums. Read the book and let me know whether you like it.

Relations-in-law.

"Lucky girl!" I heard a woman say seriously the other day when speaking of a friend who was about to be married. "She is marrying a man without a relative belonging to him." At the found out that a woman rightly treated is the best pal in the world. And for their part the girls with brothers have seen men on what is far from their best behavior; they have heard the remarks a man makes who, when hanging a picture, mistakes his thumb for the nail. It is no matter for surprise to them that men cannot live on love and badly cooked dinners. In short, as no man is a hero to his valet, so no man is a little tin god to a girl who has brothers of her own. She knows the sex too well.

People-in-law are all popularly supposed to be prejudiced and jealous persons, and, after all, it is not an easy thing to see your beloved son or adored brother turn to find happiness in the light of another woman's eyes.

Sometimes the jealousy is all on one side, for I have known some young wives frantically jealous of a husband's love for his mother and sisters and some so unwise as to try to lessen it.

This is a fatal mistake. The love a man gives to his mother is not the love he gives to his wife, and lessening one will not increase the other. On the contrary, the more real affection he gives to those others, the deeper the devotion he has for her probably will be. My mother-in-law's a dear, as you know, so these thoughts are rather those of obtaining than of actual experience. Then I had two sisters and several cousins who stood to me in the brother class, and Dick, well, he was generally supposed to be related to the sandpaper act—that is, rub down the rough surfaces.

Now let's talk dress. I've had my last season's cloth walking suit made over into the stunning costume of sketch of which I am inclosing to you. The use of two materials in gowns of all descriptions and also tailored suits is to be modish, which idea I have incorporated in my new cloth confection.

And fur—we are going to have a great season in pelts. Even dresses are to be trimmed with fur, mostly in banded effects, and not only such dresses as you would naturally expect to see so adorned, but the chiffons and laces for evening wear. So, you see, my dear, this is the season when you should be having your furs made over. Furriers have more time for consultation now, and the charge is much less for work than it will be a few weeks later. Then many of the large New York shops are having sales of smart new furs at a third off. These pelts are stored free of charge until you need them. I must say by-by now and see about my last winter's neck set being altered. The taxi's at the door, so fare thee well. From your friend, MABEL.

would have been as welcome to A. Cooper of Oswego, N. Y., as a merciless lung-racking cough that defied all remedies for years. "It was most troublesome at night," he writes, "until I helped me till I used Dr. King's New Discovery which cured me completely. I never cough at night now." Millions know its matchless merit for stubborn colds, obstinate coughs, sore lungs, laryngitis, asthma, hemorrhage, croup, whooping cough, or hayfever. It relieves quickly and never fails to satisfy. Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Appropriate.

The kindergarten teacher in a certain Sunday school, who is also a public school teacher well on in years, announced to her class of little ones that as she was very tired and much in need of rest she would not teach them during the summer.

The children's sympathies were aroused and they collected in the class a sum of money to buy their teacher a gift.

One evening the mother of the boy who was the leading spirit in the movement asked:
"What are you going to buy for your teacher?"
"I'm not quite sure," replied the small boy, "but we saw something in the Borte's window today that we thought she'd like. It was a pillow all made of white flowers, and right in the middle in purple flowers it said, 'At Rest.'"

It Hits Them Differently.

The same thing may affect different people very differently, says the New York Sun.

Here is one man just back from the country, and this man says, as he senses the city's roar:

"My goodness! This infernal racket makes my head ache!"

But the man with his says:

"Thank heaven, we've got back at last where we can hear something, away from the infernal quiet of the country!"

AUSPICIOUS OPENING FOR AUTOMATIC LINE

TELEPOST TELEGRAPH SYSTEM
INAUGURATES SERVICE TO LOUISVILLE.

Messages Exchanged Between Governors, Mayors and Other Officials of Operating States and Cities—Civic Organizations Join In.

Louisville, Ky.—Marked by the exchange of greetings between prominent state and city officials and the heads of representative civic bodies, the telepost system of automatic telegraphy was formally opened this week between Louisville and Indianapolis.

The cordiality of the welcome extended to this newest marvel in the evolution of telegraphy, with its 2,000 words a minute service, recalled to many of the older residents of the city the feeling of elation which attended the introduction of the Morse system to Louisville 52 years ago. Among those who attended the ceremonies at the headquarters of the automatic system, the Independent Telephone Co., were Mayor H. H. Cherry, President H. H. Cherry, Bowling Green, Ky., for information relative to free tuition.

At the same time that the telepost messages were being dispatched and received, the Independent Telephone Co. was using the same wire for conversation between subscribers. The ability of the automatic system to use a telephone wire simultaneously with the telepost company while persons are talking over it, without one conflicting with the other, gives it an important economic advantage over its rivals, and is one of the novel features of this system which in time will enable it to establish direct telegraph connection with the most remote sections of the country with comparatively little cost.

Aside from the enormous speed of the telepost, what most impressed those present was the fact that all its messages are transmitted backwards. This insures the inviolability of its wires at all times while messages are in transit.

Present in the office of the automatic company were members of the city council and other local officials of Louisville, and a number of prominent business men, including members of the Louisville Commercial club.

The first message sent over the wire was one from the newspapers of Louisville to the editors of newspapers in Indianapolis, Terre Haute, Chicago, Springfield, Ill., St. Louis and Sedalia, Mo., and other cities in which the system has been commercially operating for the last year and a half. The newspapers of the country will be one of the largest beneficiaries by this system, which will give them a much more extended service for the same money their telegraph news now costs them, or the same service for a fraction of the money they now pay for the service of the hand operating system. Following the greeting from the editors were messages from the officials to state officials of Indiana and Missouri and from the mayor of Louisville to the mayors in all of the operating cities. Then came the representative business men and the commercial organizations of Louisville to similar organizations in cities reached by telepost, felicitating them upon the establishment of this new bond of fellowship between them.

The telepost is the system by means of which Professor Royce Hitecock, former curator of the department of science and industries of the Smithsonian institute, testifying recently before a special committee of the New York legislature, said Peary's 8,000-word story of the discovery of the north pole could have been sent from Battle Harbor to the New York Times in ten minutes had it been in operation at that time as far north. It took 20 skilled operators three days to send it by hand. Automatic messages are prepared on a perforating machine. These machines have a regulation typewriter keyboard, but instead of printing the message in Roman letters they punch a series of circular perforations in a tape. When these are subjected to electrical contact in the telepost sending apparatus they automatically create the dots and dashes flashed over the wires to the receiving end. The pulling of a lever sends a message on its way. On the receiving end the message is automatically recorded in dots and dashes on a chemically prepared tape.

Like Uncle Sam's postage, telepost rates are the same for all sections of the country making a special of that form of telegrams.

The first 10-word letter sent over the wire at any hour of the day or night for 25 cents, with the same certificate as an ordinary telegram and delivered by mail instead of by messenger. The second 10-word message, sent over the wire in the regular rate for 25 cents, transmitted on a postal card at the receiving end and delivered by mail. The telepost is especially adapted for large business houses. When the message reaches the receiving end, the sender is placed in an answering machine, without any employee of the company reading it, and hurried to the person for whom it is intended for transmission.

LONG DISTANCE ROAD BUILDING

Highway 380 Miles Long Finished in One Hour.

ALL THE WAY ACROSS IOWA.

Ten Thousand Farmers Turned Out
With Teams, Plows, Scrapers and Road Drags For Great Sixty Minute Job Between Council Bluffs and Davenport.

The greatest piece of road building
the world ever witnessed was pulled off in Iowa a few days ago when, in the short space of one single hour, a line of road 380 miles in length and stretching entirely across the state of Iowa was put in the most perfect condition of any road west of the Mississippi river. Weeks and months were spent in preparation for the work, but not a pick or shovel was used until the designated second was blown off. Then, as if by magic, 10,000 workmen swarmed out on to the roadway, and when they ceased work sixty minutes later Iowa had one of the finest long distance roads in the entire west.

And not the least interesting thing in connection with the tremendous piece of work is the fact that not a man of the entire 10,000 engaged on the work received one cent of wages.
Good will and patriotism alone are responsible for the splendid showing.

Last winter the Iowa roads became so fearfully bad that traffic was compelled to stop and farmers were compelled simply to maintain the horses.
Finally the matter became a political question, and both parties got behind the movement. Governor Carroll called a "good roads" meeting at Des Moines early last March, and out of that meeting was evolved the plan of a "river to river" road, stretching from Council Bluffs, on the Missouri, to Davenport on the Mississippi, a distance of 380 miles straight across the state from east to west.

"Make the river to river road as near perfect as is possible to make just common dirt," was the sense of the good roads convention.

Instead of appointing new committees to handle the work the regular Republican and Democratic committees in each county through which the road would pass were appointed.
The chairman of the committees of each party were asked to get in the game and work for the road. Everybody was agreed to do so, and soon a rivalry was created between the Republicans and Democrats, each to see which party would have the most workmen "on the job" when the time for work arrived.

A Saturday was selected as the day and from 9 o'clock to 10 o'clock the hour of work.

Every farmer along the way was personally seen by the committees, and practically every man agreed to give the one hour that was asked for.
Farmers were asked to bring their plows, scrapers and road drags, and an organization equal to those employed in professional railroad building was worked out.

In the weeks preceding the work all bridges and culverts along the road were repaired and put in first class condition so that no delay might come to the road builders when once the latter started working.

The result of the organization was shown on the Saturday the road was built. Shortly before 9 o'clock in the morning farmers began getting out in the road. Hundreds and thousands of plows, picks, shovels, scrapers, road drags and machines and other implements were brought along. Every farmer brought his team with him.
Superintendents and overseers had been appointed in readiness when, promptly at 9 o'clock, the order was issued to "fall to."

For 10,000 determined men "fall to"
and for an hour they continued working with might and main. At 10 o'clock the job was finished and the farmers went back to their fields, leaving Iowa
the possessor of the finest piece of long distance roadway in the west.—Pittsburg Gazette-Times.

Mud Roads Relic of Barbarism.
Mud roads are a relic of barbarism and always indicate a people of slow and unprogressive habits. If a stranger should ride over all the roads in any county and find them all mae-chanized he would be ready to bet on the superior intelligence and enlightenment of the people, whether he met a single one or not. The roads of any county can be greatly improved by the road drag, and now is the time to do it. Some farms have already been improved several dollars per acre by the simple process of keeping the roads to them in good condition by the vigorous use of the drag.

Keep Good Roads Good.
In commercial life we are a wonderfully practical people. A man does not let a house go to ruin for lack of hammer and nails and a few boards to make repairs or occasional coats of paint to preserve the timbers. He does not use his carriage or his steam engine or his watch or his clothes or anything else on such a fool theory as "the force of prevention" and "the time" to his personal and business affairs, but such maxims seem to have no application to road maintenance.

DRAWING NEAR TO THE END

Closing Years of Life Should Be Among Most Useful and Enjoyable.

As a rule people mellow with age.
As experience ripens into wisdom antagonisms should fade into charity and love and wisdom deepen. It is often impossible to ward off infirmity, but neither age nor infirmity need mean decrepitude, and age need not mean unhappiness. Nor should age narrow a person. It should distinctly broaden it and deepen a man or a woman. What is more delightful than the grandmother in the home who can cheer and help by her seasoned experience and her glowing affection? She has been all along the highway of life and knows its pitfalls and temptations.
Her last years should be her best years. Let her have the respect and helping others to walk where she walked better than she did.

Reminiscence is a concomitant of age, but it is no sign of weakness.
The "old folks" who are full of vitality and the "good old times" were the best and the old person who can get away from this delusion can live happily with less effort than the one who lives entirely in the year-day of life. How delightful it is to see an old person who keeps up the pace like a young man, and who has books and converses on the questions of the day, and how much more respect age like this commands than that of the day down to die just because the evening of life has come.
What is there in death that such a life can covet?

"If people would only say what they

VALUE OF ROAD KEEPERS.

Rational Plan For Repairing Highways at Little Cost.

Several states in the United States have spent millions of dollars in building improved roads. All states spend vast sums every year in road making and repairing. And it is strange, but true, that a large proportion of all this money is wasted. Improved roads, built at great cost, are systematically left alone until they become bad again, when there is a howl about the repair bill. Ordinary roads are fixed up once a year and then neglected until the annual repairing is due. The rational plan of having road keepers to take care of the roads all the time does not seem to have found favor anywhere in

AN IMPROVED MACADAM ROAD.

The United States, though it has long been in successful operation abroad.
A little work at the right time will save a lot of it later on almost any road, yet we continue to follow the wasteful plan of waiting till the ball groves bigger. On all our improved roads men should be kept constantly at work, and the same is true of most ordinary dirt roads. A couple of men and a team can care for quite a stretch of road and do it cheaper than the same road can be kept in repair by a spasmodic effort, often made by those who know little about roads.—National

ROYAL ACCOUNTS.

Methods of the King of England in Transacting Business.

No advertisement is more valuable to a British tradesman than the royal warrant, which allows him to place the royal arms over his place of business and describe himself as "purveyor by appointment to his majesty the king."

Each tradesman who has the royal crown and lion in his bill at the end of the month. It is compared with his ledger account kept at Marlborough House and if correct is paid in the first week of the month. No discount is asked on any of the royal accounts.
A tradesman who receives the royal crown is informed that he must supply goods at the lowest reasonable prices, and there is never any attempt at bargaining by the official of the royal household. If a tradesman is thought to be making extortionate charges he simply loses the royal custom.

Coal is supplied to Marlborough House by contract, the contracts being made for three years and the contractors paid in equal half yearly payments. Window cleaning, carpet cleaning and chimney sweeping are all done by contract, and the glass frames of large pictures are also kept clean by contract.

Servants' wages are paid monthly,
the upper servants being paid by check to each from the treasurer's department. The king's accounts for clothes, cigars, theaters, newspapers, books and other personal articles are sent to his secretary, not the treasurer,
and are also paid monthly.—Toronto

Louisville, Sept. 17.—As a result of the death of three babies on exhibition in the incubator at the State Fair, Dr. G. C. Snyder of Pittsburg, Pa. was arrested to-night at Jeffersonville Indiana.

Twelve warrants were sworn out by County Attorney Bullitt, of Louisville on the charge of a statutory offense, and arrest was made by Chief of Police, Wall of Jeffersonville. Dr. Snyder made the statement during the day that the babies died because he was unable to give them the proper attention while making the trip from Chicago to Louisville.

The babies it is understood, came from charity hospitals in Pittsburg. The deputy coroner found that the babies died of inanition.
